

Grand Bargain transparency workstream

Progress Report, May 2019

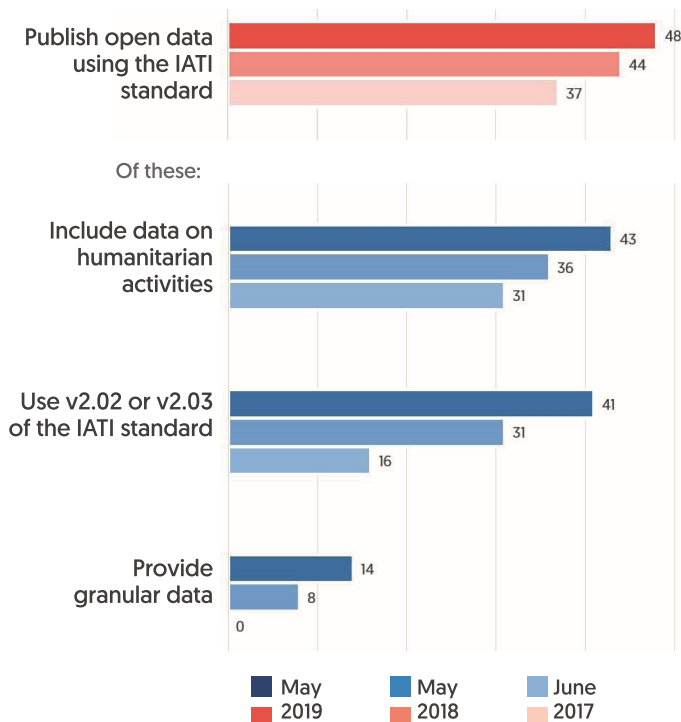

By May 2019, 90% of Grand Bargain signatories that publish open data to IATI were including some data on their humanitarian activities.

This is an increase of 9% from June 2018.

This means that 43 of 48 publishing signatories* now publish some data on humanitarian activities. (There are 59 signatories in total.)

So, good progress is being made on the first commitment area – and focus is now on step two:

1. Publish timely, transparent, harmonised and open high-quality data on humanitarian funding

2. Make use of appropriate data analysis

3. Improve the digital platform

4. Support the capacity of all partners to access and publish data

 FTS is piloting the use of IATI data on its platform

Key goals

Publication

- Increase awareness of IATI among Grand Bargain signatories and the humanitarian community
- Support signatories in publishing more useable humanitarian data as a precondition to better data use

Data use

- Enhance understanding of IATI data uses and user needs (including in-country actors) among Grand Bargain signatories and the humanitarian community
- Support signatories to access and use IATI data directly and/or via IATI-compatible tools and platforms

Monitoring and learning

- Ensure that Grand Bargain signatories, the transparency workstream and the humanitarian community have a clear approach to monitoring progress on the transparency commitments and a vision for humanitarian transparency beyond the Grand Bargain
